Yes. Even though the California Drivers Handbook covers driving in California, it's not a replacement for a drivers education course such as ours. The handbook has the rules and steps of safe driving, but can't set you up with skills that you need to be fully prepared behind the wheel. In many states, like California, you need to be at least 15½ to enroll.

After a year or two you will realise that a Thai drivers handbook would be useless as the main rule is to expect stupid things to happen at any time. The police generally have only a rudimentary grasp of Thai traffic laws or will latch on to some obscure rule like insisting that motor bikes can only overtake on the left and just issue tickets (if you're lucky) all day for that.
