"This book will help licensed professional counselors incorporate Equine Assisted Counseling (EAC) into their practices, even those who have no prior experience working with horses. It provides a strong research foundation for understanding the efficacy of equine assisted interventions and the potentially powerful impact that a horse can have in creating a new counseling dynamic. Chapters address using horses to help clients dealing with various traumas and abuse, anxiety, depression, atypical behaviors, and social skills and communication issues. One chapter is written by the internationally renowned "horse whisperer" Pat Parilli and offers a look at EAC from the horse's point of view and describes the process of developing a relationship with the horse in a positive, safe, and respectful manner, an important topic to ensure the well-being of the horse throughout a session. Counselors will find this a valuable resource for understanding and utilizing EAC as a new resource in their own practices, as will students seeking to learn about this innovative approach"--Provided by publisher.

This paper presents a cash-in-advance framework, with variable income velocity, where the domestic effects, as well as the international transmission, of financial innovation can be analyzed. In particular, the discussion emphasizes the role of currency substitution and of cross-border transfers of seigniorage in determining the general equilibrium effects of financial innovation.

The IP has just published the second edition of this important product performance specification, which has international application. It covers all underground piping systems and associated products used in connection with the storage and movement of motor fuels at petrol filling stations. This second edition includes a number of additions and amendments to ensure that the technical requirements are aligned with work that is ongoing within CEN. A new requirement for annual product surveillance testing has also been included. Compliance with the requirements of the specification will help demonstrate the overall fitness-for-purpose of pipework systems. This publication provides an essential reference for all those involved in the design, manufacture, testing, inspection, supply, purchase and installation of pipework systems.
