"The funniest, New York Times bestselling southern humorist delivers a book of etiquette for the modern age. Celia Rivenbark's seventh book, Rude Bitches Make Me Tired, is an always sensible and mildly profane etiquette manual for real-life manners quandaries ranging from how to deal with braggy playground moms to wondering if you can have sex in your aunt's bed on vacation to correctly grieving the dearly departed (hint: It doesn't include tattoos or truck decals). In this book, Celia Rivenbark: Navigates the agonies of check splitting ("who had the gorgonzola crumbles and should we really care?") Explores the baffling aspects of airline travel ("Recline Monster" and other animals) Discusses the art of the visit (always leave them wanting more. much more) Expounds upon gym and locker etiquette ("no one wants to talk to you while you're buck naked") Examines the conundrums of office manners (Loud talkers, cake hawkers, and Britney Sue's unfortunate cyst) And much more! Good manners have never been more fun!"--

Spoiler* F BOMBS AHEAD You know how you say when your little that you don't like peas and your parents say people in Ethiopia wish they had A pea... eat it. It didn't make you magically like peas, did it? NO! We're trained from when we're children to think, well others have it worse so we should be happy.... you know what. Screw that. I am unhappy. I am tired of everyone telling me to look at the bright side or so and so has it worse... I AM UNHAPPY. The clinch is to own it. It's fine to be unhappy. You can't shoot sunshine and rainbows out of your ass EVERY DAY. The second thing is not to wallow... be unhappy but take the joy that comes, when it comes and right now I don't. Everyone is so hung up on labels. I am a LMFAOWTF...or whatever. Fine. Here is my label. I'm a bitch. I am also an equal opportunity do whatever the hell you want person.... just don't think I'm gonna do it with you.Just because I don't care what you did doesn't mean I don't care about you. Just because I don't toot your praises everyday doesn't mean I don't love you. Just because I'm annoyed that we have to back in to every parking space everywhere, all the time, doesn't mean I hate you. I hate that you do that. But not you.Yes, I had NO idea how horrible you snored before we got married but I haven't smothered your log sawing face with a pillow while you sleep so ...Yay. You win. I put my bra on one cup at a time just like everybody else only I don't plaster it all over social media. I'm pretty sure I've been unsuccessful in deleting it but I've not had a face book since 2009 and that was brief. I can't tell you if it erased or not. I haven't looked... because I don't care. Over the next year I'm going to implement life changes I've seen or read about and haven't had the balls to try. I'm going to embrace my weird (I hear it's the new black) and bring joy back into my life. I want to be happy and un-medicated by the end of 2019. So here goes.

“ If Laurie Notaro ’ s books don ’ t inspire pants-wetting fits of laughter, then please consult your physician, because, clearly, your funny bone is broken. ” —Jen Lancaster, author of I Regret Nothing #1 New York Times bestselling author Laurie Notaro isn ’ t exactly a domestic goddess—unless that means she fully embraces her genetic hoarding predisposition, sneaks peeks at her husband ’ s daily journal, or has made a list of the people she wants on her Apocalypse Survival team (her husband ’ s not on it). Notaro chronicles her chronic misfortune in the domestic arts, including cooking, cleaning, and putting on Spanx while sweaty (which should technically qualify as an Olympic sport). Housebroken is a rollicking new collection of essays showcasing her irreverent wit and inability to feel shame. From defying nature in the quest to make her own Twinkies, to begging her new neighbors not to become urban livestock keepers, to teaching her eight-year-old nephew about hoboes, Notaro recounts her best efforts—and hilarious failures—in keeping a household inches away from being condemned. After all, home wasn ’ t built in a day. Praise for Laurie Notaro “ Notaro is a scream, the freak-magnet of a girlfriend you can ’ t wait to meet for a drink to hear her latest story. ” —The Plain Dealer “ Hilarious, fabulously improper, and completely relatable, Notaro is the queen of funny. ” —Celia Rivenbark, author of Rude Bitches Make Me Tired “ Notaro is direct and self-deprecating, and her disastrous attempts to sew a dress and make jerky treats for her dog are relatable and funny. ” —Library Journal
